Overview

AAID continues to face headwinds as it seeks to reach positive cash flow in its operations budget. This budget represents a large jump forward in revenue, but higher print production costs and an active First Amendment lawsuit add significant expense. This budget projects a 4% net membership growth and a higher relative increase in credentialed members, driving revenue growth to 7% over 2024 levels. Investments in staff resources to bring sales activities in-house result in large increases in advertising, royalties, and Journal subscription income and positive strides in sponsorship that boost Annual Conference income. Exams and Credentials income remains strong and is projected to hold steady. Overall, an increase of 24% is expected in budgeted revenues over 2024 forecasted revenue. However, 14% growth is anticipated in expenditures, resulting in increased operational income – but still representing a challenging operational deficit of $763,523. An average of 6% annual investment returns would offset this operational deficit, producing a projected positive net income of $32,796.

Income

The budgeted operating revenues of $6,093,154 for 2025 are higher than the forecasted operating revenues of $4,911,031 for 2024 by $1,182,123 or 24%. Revenues are expected to change as follows:

Expenses

Total expenses for 2025 are projected to be $6,856,676 compared to 2024 budgeted expenses of $6,446,426, an increase of $390,250 or 6%. The largest drivers of these expenses are increased production costs for the Journal of Oral Implantology, rising costs for the Annual Meeting, investment in “MaxiCourse 2” development, Travel expenses for Board of Trustee meetings, and increased investment in new member recruitment.

AAID's total operating revenue through August 2024 increased by $146,173 or 9% above the same period of 2023. Much of this increase is due to increased membership dues rates, increased exam applicants, and higher interest income. Operating expenses are down $98,392 or 4% due to a 2023 write-off of unamortized costs related to scrapped software. Strong market performance has delivered strong returns and contributes to a current net surplus of $612,314 and a forecasted year-end surplus of $749,988. AAID estimates it will exceed the previous year's revenues by $178,523 but will spend $314,946 more on higher expenses. The net increase in cost is driven by $536,499 in increased legal spending. The following is a summary of the financial results:

Accordingly, based on current forecasts, AAID will likely have surplus funds at year-end in its Market Fluctuation Reserve Fund. It will also likely require transfers into its Undesignated Net Assets and Operating Reserve Funds to meet minimum funding requirements. Based on actual year-end balances, an action will be proposed at the winter Board of Trustees Meeting.
