Resource Hunting

Indiana 211 has created processes to not only update resources timely, but to search for new resources, especially those areas with unmet needs across the state. There were three specific approaches.

1. A Standard Operating Procedures document for weekly, monthly, periodic, and seasonal practices
2. A weekly hunting process document to track progress in hunting assignments for the curators. Curators are assigned specific hunting assignments based on the target communities document procedures.
3. Identification and documentation of target communities on which to focus.

Resource Curator Dashboard

The internal resource curation dashboard provides an overview of the resource curation activities for current and upcoming months. There are options for filtering by

- date range, which displays the overall overdue percentage for the selected date range.
- curator to display the overdue percentage for specific curators.

The dashboard displays past due updates and future resource reviews required. This function provides a visually appealing graph which facilitates planning for curators, as well as awareness of the overdue percentage in real time. Furthermore, the dashboard presents the data necessary for potential caseload rebalancing, as appropriate.
