Exchange Bank Promotes Annie Folendore to Officer

Milledgeville, GA — July 5, 2024 — Exchange Bank's Board of Directors and President and CEO, John Childs Jr., are pleased to announce the promotion of Annie Folendore to loan operations officer.

Folendore joined Exchange Bank in 2016 as a real estate loan processor. In July 2022, Folendore assumed the responsibility of supervising the Loan Servicing Department. Her exceptional management skills and dedication led to her swift promotion to loan servicing manager in 2023. Folendore has continued to demonstrate outstanding leadership and commitment to excellence in her new role.

"Annie's promotion is a reflection of her exceptional performance and leadership. She has consistently gone above and beyond in her duties, and we support her continued growth within Exchange Bank," said John Childs.

Originally from Warner Robins, GA, Folendore studied English Education at Macon State College. She and her husband, Wes, are proud parents to two children, Wade (9) and Riley (7). The Folendore family is actively involved at Northridge Christian Church, where Folendore teaches a Bible study group for mothers and a Sunday School class for 2-year-olds. They are also engaged in supporting their children's school, Georgia Military College Prep School. In addition, Folendore's commitment to community service is evident through her volunteer work with Meals on Wheels Baldwin County, where she delivers meals to local seniors. Despite her busy schedule, she is an avid reader and enjoys spending her free time with a good book.
