

Jaclyn Valderama, Assistant Vice President in Supervision and Credit, Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco (FRB SF)

Prior to joining the FRB SF, Jackie was an Assistant Regional Director (ARD) for the San Francisco Regional Office of the FDIC. She has extensive examination and leadership experience in banking supervision.

Jackie began her career at the Office of Thrift Supervision in 2007 and earned her commission there as a bank examiner. She subsequently moved to the FDIC in 2011 as a risk examiner before becoming a case manager responsible for all aspects of supervisory work for a portfolio of institutions in 2012. She took on the ARD role in 2021 and in that capacity, directed the supervisory effort for a portfolio of over 55 banks in the San Francisco Region.

She is passionate about leadership, particularly her role as mentor and colleague in helping develop her team members and peers. On a more personal note, she loves spending time with her family, coaching basketball and soccer for her 9-year-old daughter and 5-year-old son. She also loves personal finance and investing in real estate. Jackie is based in San Francisco.
