Developing a Professional Attitude: Ethics for the Regulatory Investigator — Schedule

Winter 2026

CLEAR Learning
Generated
November 3, 2026

This program will be delivered virtually. Program information will be emailed to each participant one week before the session. An eBook version of the program manual will be provided, which participants can either print or save to their desktop for easy access and review.

Completion Requirement: Participants must attend the live virtual session to receive completion. This session is not recorded, nor will a recording be provided.

Event Details:

Investigators are called upon to apply professional judgment to ever-changing factual situations as they perform their duties. These discretionary decisions coupled with the authority possessed by an investigator during the investigatory stage can have very real consequences for all parties involved including the Regulant, the department or agency the investigator represents, and the investigator. There is a need to ensure that the investigator understands the importance of maintaining high ethical standards in carrying out his or her duties including the exercise of professional judgment. This course is designed to provide students with an advanced understanding of guidelines for ethical behavior as a regulatory investigator.

The course will (i) review models for professional conduct and behavior by examining ethical standards established by statute or governmental policy and professional ethical standards, (ii) explore the concepts of conflict of interests and scope of liability as they relate to public employment in general and the work of the investigator in specific, and (iii) consider practical applications of ethical dilemmas through case studies and scenarios.

All times are in ET

DATE	START	END	PLATFORM	SESSION NAME
Dec 7, 2026	11:00 AM ET	2:00 PM ET	Zoom	Developing a Professional Attitude: Ethics for the Regulatory Investigator