About This Course

PELP invites police executives to reflect and elevate their leadership identity and practices by focusing on the fundamental attributes and core competencies essential to the chief executive role. The session introduces strategic frameworks, executive-level perspectives, and tools for navigating the evolving demands of leading a police organization.

Through the CPCA “COPS” Leadership Framework, participants explore the pillars of Curiosity, Onboarding, People, and Storytelling, and gain practical tools for leading with cognitive agility, emotional awareness, and intentional practice. The course examines wellness, technology, data-informed strategies, and collaborative design to shape the future direction of an agency.
