About This Course

This one-day, POST-certified course is designed to cultivate a successful relationship between police management teams and their Chiefs. This course is designed to be taken by command staff and management ranks who hold significant leadership responsibilities. This course is NOT designed for those currently sitting in the role of Chief.

Through a variety of learning activities, participants will gain valuable insights into the issues, problems, and practices essential for excelling as a leader in your department. This thoughtfully designed training is an invaluable opportunity for current and aspiring leaders to enhance their leadership capabilities.

It explores the dynamics of followership and its impact on effective leadership, helping participants navigate complex and challenging situations with poise and strategic thinking. The program also features an executive panel discussion, offering insights from experienced leaders on best practices, and includes interactive breakout exercises and group discussions to reinforce learning and foster collaboration.
