

Massachusetts Veterinary Medical Association

Confinement

The MVMA believes all animals should be housed in such a manner that minimally allows each individual adequate space to turn around, lie down, stand up, and fully extend its limbs. In acknowledgement of species specific behavior, the MVMA recommends incorporation of evidence-based behavioral science in the design of animal housing.