

Heard, Seen, and Safe: The New Standard for Multifamily

Monica Frazier

In today's workplace climate, site teams are navigating more than just operations—they're managing trust, identity, and emotional safety every day. This session explores how psychological safety fuels performance, retention, and innovation on site. From uncomfortable conversations to unseen team dynamics, we'll unpack how trust and transparency function as the new currency and how to create a property culture where people feel safe to speak up, make mistakes, and be themselves.